Here is an example of a strong bluff made better by a stressful tournament atmosphere: A player raises in the lojack seat acting before the hijack and we defend Q J in the big blind. Please try the best alternative which is available for your location: Close and visit page. For instance, some players are tight preflop and resolve never to fold postflop – trying to bluff them is counterproductive.

This type of bluff can be attempted in a cash game, but shines. Calculate stack size using 'M'. Don't let that be you!

During those times you have to play more aggressively than at a full table. Even weaker opposition, raising small and often still really works, especially in late position.
